

Camino Students Clad Surf Bound Brethren

There's power in sewing classes at El Camino College!

Learning techniques of mass production, students in the power-sewing classes are lending a stitch to their brethren in physical education, for whom they are making 480 swim suits.

The swim-suit project is one of many, all leading to factory employment, for students working under direction of Marisa Robles, sewing instructor at the college.

"We use regular factory procedure in the instruction of our classes," Mrs. Robles said, "and during training students handle thousands of yards of beautiful material which they make into women's and children's wear."

Depending upon their ability, students may enroll at any time a class vacancy exists for the 8:30 a.m. to noon class.

Instruction covers machines, using single needle, double needle, overlock, blind stitching, and zig-zag stitching.

Button and button-hole machines and four needle electric machines also are utilized in the process of instruction.

Mental Health Brochures Set by Welfare Council

The foundation for a mental health program for the Harbor-South Bay area has been established through the formation of the Harbor Area Welfare Planning Council's Mental Health Survey Steering Committee with Mrs. C. B. Walsworth, chairman.

The objective of the committee is the preparation and distribution of a mental health brochure containing a summary of the findings of the Harbor-South Bay Mental Health Survey made in conjunction with the survey conducted throughout Los Angeles County.

Preparation of the mental health brochures is under supervision of Dr. David Dingilian.

Plans are being made for the brochures to be made available first to those in leadership positions in the community (doctors, teachers, and leaders in civic groups), to spearhead the establishment of needed mental-health services.

A second brochure will be addressed to the general public whose support is necessary in maintaining these services.

Content of the brochure will include definition of serious emotional problems most prevalent, what mental-health services are available, and what is needed. Emphasis will be placed on what the community can do to meet apparent needs.

It is anticipated that the brochures will be ready for distribution early in May.
